

BE MY GUEST: San Francisco

Whether you're wandering around the chic shops and art galleries, riding a cable car or gazing out to the blue bay, this is a city where you might leave – or find – your heart, says Kimberly Miller

Known for its views, world-class chefs and Silicon Valley technology companies that have redefined communication, San Francisco brims with casual sophistication and cutting-edge culture. To call it the culinary capital of California would be a claim easily substantiated, but the adventure in exploring this hippie geek-meets-boho chic melting pot does not stop there...

Retail therapy

Nestled in bustling downtown lies the fashion epicentre Union Square, where department stores like Barneys and Neiman Marcus are intermixed with boutique flagships – from Bulgari and Gucci to the three-storey Chanel. Those seeking a bespoke men's suit or a gown for the opera need look no further than Wilkes Bashford (www.wilkesbashford.com), an exquisitely curated store. Stroll down the street to Torso Vintages (www.torsovintages.com), every local fashionista's go-to spot for yesteryear's Pucci, Halston, and the like. For homeware and gifts, Gump's (www.gumps.com) is the destination, and designer labels at reduced prices are too good to pass up at Jeremys (www.jeremys.com) in nearby SoMa – a weekly pilgrimage for those in the know. Restoration Hardware's (www.restorationhardware.com) new gallery store in the Design District has rustic antiques and reproduction furnishings.

City highs

There's nothing quite like taking in the salty air while crossing the Golden Gate Bridge, a stretch of just under 3km. A visit to Alcatraz takes you through the cell blocks that once housed notorious criminals such as Al Capone. If the views from your hotel room at Mandarin Oriental, San Francisco, in the city's third tallest building, 345 California Center, aren't enough, hike the Lyon Street Steps in Pacific Heights, after taking in the renovated dome of the Palace of Fine Arts. Or climb the stairs of Coit Tower in North Beach for a great panorama. A visit to Nob Hill is a must, where the majestic Beaux-Arts-style Grace Cathedral towers over the park.

Room with a view Mandarin Oriental, San Francisco is in the city's third tallest building, 345 California Center

Above: take in San Francisco Bay and Alcatraz from the city's cable cars. Left: the Palace of Fine Arts, built for the 1915 Panama-Pacific Exposition. Below: a Bay View King Room at Mandarin Oriental, San Francisco

Cool culture

With a living green rooftop and albino alligator, the California Academy of Sciences – new to Golden Gate Park – will mesmerise. Across the way is the de Young Museum (www.deyoung.famsf.org), a sibling of the Legion of Honor and exhibitor of post-Impressionist masterpieces on loan from the Musée d'Orsay, Paris (until 18 January 2011). After touring SFMOMA's (www.sfmoma.org) tribute to the wine industry, in How Wine Became Modern: Design + Wine 1976 to Now (until 17 April 2011), venture through Union Square's fine art galleries, beginning with Fraenkel Gallery (www.fraenkelgallery.com) for photography lovers, Serge Sorokko Gallery (www.sorokko.com) for the Damien Hirst-obsessed, and ending with John Berggruen Gallery (www.berggruen.com), the go-to for billionaires, and Hackett Mill (www.hackettmill.com), ground zero for Bay Area figurative work. The critics flock to Yoshi's (www.yoshis.com) to hear emerging talent in jazz; others cross the Bay Bridge to the Fox Theater (www.thefoxoakland.com) in Oakland for headliners in a retro venue.

Outdoor adventure

If the sun's rays conquer the fog that blankets the bay, make like a local and spend time at Crissy Field, where dog-friendly Baker Beach and green lawns beckon. Sail around Angel Island with Ruby Sailing (www.rubysailing.com) or take a narrated Segway Tour (www.electrictourcompany.com). Those with green fingers will delight at the San Francisco Botanical Garden, which also offers Sunday-morning birding tours. Weather permitting, take a ride aboard the legendary cable cars that traverse the undulating hills. Of the charming neighbourhood parks, Alta Plaza in Pacific Heights has tennis courts, and in Dolores Park, multicoloured Victorian homes line one side of Alamo Square.

Fitness fanatics

After climbing the city-wide hills, treat your body to an in-room massage at Mandarin Oriental, San Francisco; although the hotel does not have a spa, the staff can arrange this service. Make time for a quick workout in the hotel gym, or grab a day pass at fitness centre Equinox (www.equinox.com) across the street.

Foodie heaven

Let the culinary journey begin with Pacific Rim-influenced cuisine by Rick Bartram, Executive Chef of Silks at Mandarin Oriental, San Francisco. For handmade pasta in a chic space, Quince (www.quincerestaurant.com) in Jackson Square will not disappoint. Oenophiles can pick from hundreds of wines thanks to Michael Mina's RN74 (www.michaelmina.net/rn74) wine bar and restaurant in SoMa. Fans of Balthazar in NYC will be right at home at Café des Amis (www.cafedesamis.sf.com), a new brasserie in Cow Hollow, owned by the visionaries behind Spruce (www.sprucesf.com). For a slice of heavenly pizza, try Pizzeria

PALACE OF FINE ARTS COURTESY WWW.PDFPHOTO.ORG; PHOTOLIBRARY; RICHARD BARNES

At the day's end Enjoy a Lychini cocktail in MO Bar before turning in for the night, or unwind in the sultry surroundings with a tawny port

Above: artworks at SFMOMA, the city's first stop for photography, sculpture and paintings. Right: a treasure trove of retro fashion at Torso Vintages Delfina (www.pizzeriadelfina.com) in Pacific Heights, after shopping on Fillmore Street, or get your fill from a multitude of artisanal fare at the Ferry Building Marketplace (www.ferrybuildingmarketplace.com).

Show business

Sip cocktails at Sloane (www.sloanesf.com) in SoMa, or with the hipsters at the Financial District's Rickhouse (www.rickhousebar.com). It won't just be the 360-degree views that catch your eye at Harry Denton's Starlight Room (www.harrydenton.com) – the Sunday's a Drag! performance and brunch features famous drag queens. Watch movies at Sundance Kabuki Cinema (www.sundancecinemas.com) in Japantown, and go bowling at the beloved Presidio Bowling Center (www.presidiobowl.com). For quintessential San Francisco, get tickets to the long-running music revue, Steve Silver's Beach Blanket Babylon (www.beachblanketbabylon.com). Finally, enjoy a Lychini cocktail in MO Bar back at the hotel before turning in for the night, or unwind in the sultry surroundings with a tawny port.